

OAuth Due Diligence Questionnaire

As part of our review process, we require all OAuth partners to complete the following due diligence questionnaire.

Our Firm does not entertain or approve OAuth relationships involving copy trading, mirror trading, social trading, or influencer-based promotional activities related to trading or investment services. Applications from firms engaging in such business models will not be considered unless the applicant is a registered investment adviser or broker-dealer in the United States, duly approved for this type of activity or provides a legal opinion from a licensed attorney in the United States confirming such authorization and compliance framework.

Examples of such activities include platforms that automatically replicate another trader's portfolio or trades in a user's account (copy trading), systems that mirror the trading strategies or positions of a lead trader across multiple client accounts (mirror trading), or social trading networks where users follow, subscribe to, or automatically execute trades based on the activity or recommendations of other traders or influencers.

Alpaca's name, brand, and services must not be referenced or used anywhere on the website or in partner agreements. Partners should use neutral, generic language—such as "link your brokerage account" throughout their website. Partners can mention Alpaca on their website only when showing brokerage integrations partners. Marketing materials should refrain from referencing or using Alpaca's name, without prior written approval.

Acknowledgement of the disclosure must be done prior to a client connecting their Alpaca account.*

DO'S AND DONT'S

Position your company as an OAuth app. Your company should not be viewed as or mistaken for a broker-dealer, licensed trader, or investment advisor.

PERMITTED

- Refer to your platform as an “app”, “tool”, or “technology” that “helps improve” the users' trading experience.
- Highlight the platform's/software's value outside of its trading functionality.

NOT PERMITTED

- Do not state or imply that your company is a broker-dealer, that you open or maintain accounts, or that you provide the brokerage services that are accessed by customers.
- Do not provide investment advice/recommendations. In order to mention a specific security or strategy, the statement must be worded so that the reader can draw their own conclusion from the statement.
